"To provide the citizens of Euless a better understanding of the dedication and integrity of the police department"

Hi ECPAAA members,

I wanted to remind you the 23rd Citizen's Police Academy graduating ceremony will be held on Thursday March 22 at the Texas Star in Euless. You are invited to the ceremony which will start at 7:00 PM. If you could RSVP with me via email I would appreciate it. Chief Mike Brown will be our guest speaker, so plan on attending and supporting our new graduates.

Al Simmenroth led the Warrant Roundup again this year. We had several volunteers show up within a four day period and donate approximately seventy hours of their time. We had numerous fugitives who voluntarily turned themselves in at the Police Department because of calls made by all of our volunteers. This is an annual program that is successful because of our volunteers. Thank you.

I want to thank all those that showed up on Tuesday evening, March 13, at the Police Department. We had twenty five volunteers who were formally trained by the Police, Fire and Code Enforcement Officers on ordinance violations from respective departments. This will allow those trained to take a proactive approach to making our neighborhoods and businesses and a better place to live and shop.

As always, thank you for volunteering your time.

Sergeant David Chaney

Odds and Ends

Last year whenever it was time to write something for the newsletter, my brain went blank. You see, I was trying to be creative, a difficult objective to achieve on my best day. However, it seems more productive to share decisions the Board has taken which will hopefully lead to better discussions during our general meeting. The intent, as always, is to keep you informed and to give you the opportunity to exercise your voice on matters concerning the organization.

Last year, the ECPAAA committed to contribute $2,000 to the cost of the Police Awards Banquet. When the Board learned that we had not honored our commitment, it was decided that the $1,000 budgeted for 2007 would be doubled. The additional funds would come from the amount that is to be deposited in a savings account.

Speaking of the Police Awards Banquet, this year it will be held Friday, March 30. Invitations have been mailed to the membership. If you have not been able to attend before, be sure to try to attend this year. It was always joyful to see our officers recognized for outstanding service. Although we all serve the Police Department as much as our time permits, one ECPAAA member is also recognized as Volunteer of the Year.

Asst. Chief Bob Freeman met with the Board during a special meeting to share a fund-raising idea with us. Let me express my understanding of the idea for your consideration. We could sponsor a barbeque and auction. The best part is that the police officers are willing to help us with food preparation. We could sell tickets for the all-you-can-eat BBQ. There could be two types of auction, a silent auction and a live auction. The items made available for the silent auction would be contributions made by the membership. The live auction would consist of items donated by area businesses—items we would have to request. There could even be raffle tickets sold at the BBQ for a special item. Some of the officers participated in a fund raising event of this type and that organization earned over $4,000.

The Fund Raising Committee will be meeting to discuss these ideas and flesh them out before presenting them to you for a final vote. However, you may have some ideas for consideration that we would love to hear. Please think about this proposal. We need to do something to raise funds, and this sounds exciting to me. Hopefully, you will share the excitement.

On a different note, let me ask you to remember the Baum family in your prayers. Catherine was recently hospitalized and was still there as I write.

Regards,
Rose Marie Stevens

Strengthening Euless CERT
Disaster Medical Operations Exercise

by Denise Feeley

As we continue to build our CERT skill set through independent learning, please re-read Unit Three, Disaster Medical Operations -- PART ONE. Then, please spend 20 minutes thinking through the following CERT Challenge.

It is noon on a Sunday. Two church vans collide on 183 Westbound above Ector. Each van is carrying 30 passengers. Four other cars are also involved in the wreck. EPD needs help and activates CERT.

When you arrive at the scene, the incident commander assigns you to work the Emergency Medical Operations tent. The victims have already been triaged, and you are assigned three patients tagged "Immediate."

Your first patient is a 35-year-old male who is not breathing. You shake him and speak to him but he does not respond. You suspect he has an obstructed airway.

What do you do?

How do you open his airway?

How do you safely maintain his open airway?

Your second patient is a pregnant woman with a large bleeding wound on her right forearm just below her elbow. She is screaming.

What do you do first? Do you have bandages splints in your CERT bag?

Where do you apply direct pressure?

Is the pressure light or firm?

How do you maintain the pressure?

Should you tie the pressure bandage with a bow or a knot? Why?

Do you elevate her arm? If so, how high?

Which pressure point will work best? Brachial or femoral?

Your third patient is an elderly man. He has rapid and shallow breathing, cannot follow commands and has a capillary refill of 4 seconds. He is in shock.

What do you do first?

After you lay him on his back, how high do you elevate his feet?

How can you maintain his body temperature if you do not have a blanket available? What could you use?

He asks for water. You have a bottle of Ozarka in your backpack. Can you give him a drink?
